i+D is a collaboration between the American Society of Interior Designers (ASID) and Interior Designers of Canada (IDC). It was created to usher in a powerful and unified voice for the North American design market and beyond and to raise the bar for what design professionals expect from a publication created with them in mind.

In its inaugural year, i+D tackled topics like diversity and inclusion, the science behind today’s interiors and materials, and design for health and wellness both at home and in the workplace, as well as designing for entertainment venues, hospitality experiences, open plan living, working from home, and more. The stories are developed to give the design field the voice it deserves in imperative conversations like the future of transportation and the design of our cities, the preservation of the historic built environment, and design for the ever-changing definition of home and family.

Each issue of i+D impresses upon readers why a designer’s work is not simply beautiful, it’s impactful. It tells the stories behind the designs and puts the spotlight on the critical and creative minds behind today’s design talent and the transformative work they do on a daily basis.

Meet the Editor-in-Chief

Jennifer has spent more than 15 years covering interior design, furnishings, and more for magazines in New York, Los Angeles, and now Washington, D.C., where she serves as Editor-in-Chief of i+D, the magazine for the American Society of Interior Designers (ASID) and Interior Designers of Canada (IDC). Her work has appeared in various publications, including Luxe Interiors + Design, Western Interiors + Design, FORM, and ASPIRE Design & Home, as well as on Houzz.com and About.com, where she served as Home Furnishings Expert. Prior to working at ASID National headquarters, she served on the Board of Directors for the ASID New York Metro chapter and also as editor of both the New York Metro and New Jersey chapter magazines.

Throughout her career, Jennifer has been continually struck by the endless ways design effects our daily lives and experiences and is excited to bring her passion for the subject to the pages of i+D. She earned a Bachelor’s degree in Communications from Drexel University and has taken assorted design classes covering theory, practice, and history, at schools including Parsons and NYU.

ABOUT ASID

The American Society of Interior Designers believes that design impacts lives. ASID serves the full range of the interior design profession and practice through the Society’s programs, networks, and advocacy. We thrive on the strength of cross-functional and interdisciplinary relationships among designers of all specialties, including workplace, healthcare, retail and hospitality, education, institutional, and residential. We lead interior designers in shared conversations around topics that matter: from evidence-based and human-centric design to social responsibility, wellbeing, and sustainability. We showcase the impact of design on the human experience and the value interior designers provide.

ASID was founded over 40 years ago when two organizations became one, but its legacy dates back to the early 1930s. As we celebrate nearly 85 years of industry leadership, we are leading the future of interior design, continuing to integrate the advantages of local connections with national reach, of small firms with big, and of the places we live with the places we work, play, and heal.

ASID has more than 25,000 members engaging in a variety of professional programs and activities through a network of 47 chapters throughout North America. Learn more at asid.org.

ABOUT IDC

First established in 1972, Interior Designers of Canada (IDC) remains committed as Canada’s association for the interior designer profession. As the national advocacy body for interior designers in Canada, IDC has a mandate to provide a unified voice to advance and promote the Canadian interior design industry locally, nationally, and internationally. With this goal in mind, IDC provides valuable and quality professional development opportunities; educates the public about the importance of hiring qualified interior designers; protects members’ right to practice through government relations; and works with the media to promote understanding of the interior design profession.

IDC represents more than 5,000 members including fully qualified interior designers, Intern members, students, educators and retired members, along with manufacturers and suppliers who provide products and services for interior design projects and firms. Learn more at idcanada.org.

Acceptable File Format

We accept only digital files in the PDF/X-1a format. Ensure that all elements are a minimum of 300 dpi and 100% in size. The color space must be CMYK or grayscale. Do not submit files in RGB. Export using an offset of 12 pt (0.1667”) and include trim, bleed, and file information.

Acceptable Proofs

To ensure the highest quality of print reproduction, we ask that all digital files be accompanied by a SWOP-certified proof that represents the final file at 100%. In the absence of a SWOP-certified proof, the color reproduction of the ad will be based on industry standard best practices to achieve color as accurate as possible from the supplied digital file. You may request that i+D pull a proof for you at a production charge that will be applied to your invoice. i+D will not accept responsibility for a digital ad’s content or color if a digital proof is not supplied.

ADVERTISING POLICY

PUBLISHER’S PROTECTIVE CLAUSE

ASID, IDC, and the publisher reserve the right to position, revise, or refuse to publish any advertising. Ultimate responsibility for controlling the content of i+D lies with ASID and IDC. Positioning of advertisements is at the discretion of the publisher, unless the advertiser has contracted for a premium guaranteed position. The advertiser and the advertising agency agree that ASID and IDC shall not be under any liability for the failure, for any cause, to insert any advertisement. The publisher shall be entitled to payment upon having completed the printing or the insertion of the advertisement and having taken reasonable steps to see that the publication is distributed.

While every effort is made to assure the timely release of each issue, the publisher accepts no liability for any issue that is published late. Photographs made for, or additional costs concurred by, advertisers are charged in addition to earned space rate.

Editorial Style Advertisements adopting a style similar to the regular editorial style of i+D professional magazine will carry, by way of disclaimer, the word “Advertisement” immediately above it.
